High profile law firm calls on MaxVal Drawings to illustrate complicated IP

Drawings presented in a patent application need to be clear, concise, and compliant with PTO drawings guidelines. MaxVal's drawings elucidate IP while conforming to all USPTO and PCT drawing requirements.

Challenges

A reputed law firm in Houston handles IP services for companies in the fields of High Tech, Health Care, and Home Securities, among others. Holding a huge portfolio, the law firm faced difficulties with patent drawings for a security camera for one of their clients.

- The law firm provided MaxVal with rough sketches of the camera.
- These sketches were lacking reference characters, lead lines and descriptive symbols necessary for patent prosecution.
- The sketches lacked supporting views (elevations views, exploded views, etc.) to fully depict the camera.

Solution

At MaxVal, experienced illustrators analyzed all reference material for the invention and formed a cohesive plan. The illustration team worked with the client's engineers to obtain additional resource materials to ensure drawing accuracy.

RESULTS

- Transformed a few simple sketches into detailed patent artwork
- Filed with the PTO and later the patent granted

Results

Once finished, our illustrator had transformed a few simple sketches into detailed patent artwork that were filed with the PTO, where the patent was later granted.
